KSU wants Khasi, Garo as official languages

By Our Reporter

By Our Reporter
SHILLONG, Oct 18: The KSU on Wednesday endorsed the demand of the Khasi Authors' Society (KAS) to declare Khasi as one of the official languages of the state. The union went a step further and said Garo should also be named along with English and Khasi as the official language of Mephalaya.
"It is the duty of the govermment to start from the state tiself. How can the state expect the central govermment to recognise Khasi and Garo languages if the state itself does not consider them as official languages," KSU president Lambokstar
Marngar said.

He stated that the KAS demand is legitimate and now the ball is in the state government's court.

SHILLONG, Oct 18: Families living close to the Singhania (Janata Furniture) building at Jail Road in Shillong, which was gutted in a major fire recently, have been moved to the premises of Ramakrishna Mission by the district administration. The police visited the houses of the residents late Tuesday night and asked them to vacate the place. This precautionary measure was taken as the building became weak following the accidents.

While the residents were willing to vacate the place for their own safety, they were, however, unhappy with the tim-ing of evacuation notice.

"The police came late night and told us to leave. They should have given a notice at least 24 hours before as we have our families, including ladies and children who were also required to be shifted." a resident said, adding that people manning some guest houses nearby, which had tourists, were also asked to vacate.
"We understand the danger and we are cooperating with the administration but we should have been given ample time to vacate," another resident said.

"Had the situation continued, the dues would have touched Rs 1,000 erore and it would have become a big burden on the MePDCL and the government. Hence, began negotiating with the NTPC," he said. After negotiations, the NTPC agreed to reduce the due amount to Rs 565 crore and asked the government to clear it in 20 instalments. The MePDCL, already caught in a financial crisis, approached the state gov-has seen little improvement and remains alarming. The court observed that pavements have been com-pletely taken over by hawk-ers and vendors, forcing pedestrians to spill on the streets which are already far streits which are already far too narrow to accommodate smooth vehicular movement. "This malaise can be seen from the prime Laitumkhrah area in Shillong," the Division Bench of Chief Justice Sanjib Banerjee and Justice Wanlura Diengdoh sald.

The court also asked the government to look at out-of-the-box solutions to ease the traffic congestion in the city. (Contd on P-10)

JAC to 'shield' NEHU from 'autocratic' VC

By Our Reporter

SHILLONG, Oct 18: A Joint Action Committee (JAC) comprising the NEIIU Teachers' Association (NEIIUTA) and NEIIU Non-Teaching Employees' Association (NEIIUNSA) has been formed to 'protect the university from the irregular acts' of vice-chancellor, Probha Shankar Shukla. The JAC has decided to initiate immediate action on issues such as the convening of a requisitioned academic council meeting to discuss FYUP in colleges affiliated with the NEIIU.

The JAC demanded within SHILLONG, Oct 18: A

The JAC demanded within a week the removal of Rohit Prasad, "arbitrarily appointed by Prof Shukla by violating all the rules" to allegedly grant him a high financial package and other undue benefits and relieving of the section officer from the VC's office. It also said the teachers and staff should not be used at all for administrative works that are not attached to their substantive posts.

JAC chairman, Lakhon Kma on Wednesday said the two organisations under the banner of the JAC would jointly take up issue stillicities the university, especially the career of lakhs of students who would be affected in view of the unapproved Four-Year Undergraduate Programme (FYUP).

MCTA to continue stir against NEP

SHILLONG, Oct 18: The Meghalaya College Teachers' Association (MCTA) on Wednesday made it clear that even if the colleges carry on with the implementation of the National Education Policy, 2020, they would remain steadfast in their opposition to its hasty implementation.

"Even if everyone agrees to implement NEP in the state it does not turn the wrong into right," MCTA general secretary Airpeace W Rani said.

He blamed NEHU for the wrong decision and said people should not blame the MCTA for the ongoing mess.

He reiterated that the MCTA will continue with their non-cooperation movement.

The central government had come up with the Street Vendors (Protection of Livelihood and Regulation of Street Vendorg) Act, 2014 and its nules were to be framed by the state government. Towards this perspective, the Draft Meghalays Street Vendorg (Protection of Livelihood and Regulation of Street Vendorg) Schreet, 2023 was conceived.

Cabinet minister and government spokesperson Paul Lyngdoh told reporters that through this scheme, the government envisaged to strike a balance between providing livelihood to street vendors and looking after issues such as law and order, decongestion and safety of pedestrans.

Under the scheme, a Town Vendring Committee will be constituted and it will be eligible to identify legal vendors based on criteria like possession of EPIC card, certificate of residence of at least three years in Meghalaya. JAC to 'shield' NEHU from...

(Contd from P-1) future of NEHU and the students of Meghalaya, the northeastern region and beyond who are studying in NEHU and its affiliated colleges. He said it is expected that stakeholders such as METTA-NEHU, MCTA, NEHUSU and other student, social, and cultural bodies would join its ranks to mitigate serious irregularities committed by the incumbent VC to protect the future of NEHU.

"We want to ensure that the university is not sacrificed at the irregular and un-statutory acts of by violating all established procedures, norms, and ideals that have evolved in NEHU in the last 50 years," Prof Kma, who is also the president of NEHUTA said.

He said the JAC in its extended meeting discussed issues such as the gross violation of the NEHU Act, 1973, on too many occasions and correlated accumulated systematic violations of statutes, ordinances, rules, and regulations by throwing to the winds the rule-based framework within which NEHU is required to function.

According to him, the primary motive for being autocratic, arrogant, and abrasive on the part of the VC lies in not adhering to the collective wisdom of elected statutory bodies only to serve his ego by flouting all norms in the university.

"Like the misrule of his predecessor, SK Srivastava, the current VC started flouting the norms, resulting in serious violations of the administrative and academic affairs of the university," Prof Kma said.

He said the JAC kept this in mind to flag issues such as statutory violations, infringement of the Academic Council, non-adherence to democratic and well-established procedures of the university, non-functioning of the university facilities such as the health centre and labs, delays in the appointment of the registrar, finance officer, university engineer, director of the College Development Council, and others.

He further said the JAC would raise the urgent demand of filling up all vacant nonteaching positions so that the current stalemate in the university's functioning is removed, and the corrupt officials from the last regime and the current one are replaced.

"Arbitrary and unilateral functioning of the incumbent VC has damaged the very institutional functioning of the university. Inordinate delays in the clearance of files, bills, non-delegation of powers, and many such issues were raised as big concerns by the JAC in its meeting. It was decided that the JAC shall pursue resolution of every such issue that stands in the way of the right course of functioning of the university,

He said the JAC wants Prof Shukla to correct the wrongs and bring the university back on the right course according to the NEHU Act, statutes, ordinances, regulations, and rules.

"We shall impress upon all the stakeholders to pursue a line of democratic action to make the incumbent VC listen to the voices in Meghalaya and attend immediately to the call of accountability, the purpose for which he was appointed as the VC. We would also implore everyone for justice and academic peace in the best interest of the NEHU and all its stakeholders at the state and national levels," Prof Kma said.

PB blaze: Neighbours shifted...

(Contd from P-1) Meanwhile, experts from the National Institute of Technology (NIT), Meghalaya conducted a safety assessment of the damaged building on Wednesday.

"The district administration is still awaiting the report of NIT experts. We have asked them to make it available as soon as possible," Kurbah said.

Chief Minister Conrad K Sangma has already ordered a probe into the incident. Accompanied by Chief Secretary DP Wahlang, DGP LR Bishnoi and other senior officials, he inspected the site and held a review meeting on Monday. He asked them to submit a report, conduct all safety audits of the building and find out the cause of the fire.

It was one of the most devastating fires in the history of Shillong. It could be doused after an effort of more than 40 hours by the Fire and Emergency Services department, district administration, Army, Indian Air Force, Border Security Force, among others.

One person was killed in the inferno. The total extent of damage is yet to be ascertained.

Traffic jams in city alarming...

(Contd from P-1) In a related development, the Meghalaya State Planning Board (MSPB) on Wednesday dwelt at the length on the traffic congestion in the city.

The MSPB urged the Home, Transport and Urban Affairs departments to prepare detailed presentations on the possible solutions to ease the problem.

MSPB Chairman, Metbah Lyngdoh said they have decided to ask the Power department to come up with a presentation on the power scenario in the state.
